Sunnybrook Health Sciences Centre Chooses Salumatics to Provide Health Records Conversion Services

Mississauga, ON – Salumatics Inc. and Sunnybrook Health Sciences Centre (Sunnybrook) today announced an agreement that will see Salumatics provide document imaging services as part of Sunnybrook's evolution of its electronic patient record (EPR). The Agreement is multi year beginning in July 2010.

"The decision to move forward with Salumatics' outsourced conversion solution provides Sunnybrook with a distinct advantage in the healthcare community," said Allan Magnacca, President of Salumatics. "It allows Sunnybrook to focus on the thing that matters most: patient care."

As part of a commitment to quality by design, Sunnybrook is integrating its various electronic and paper-based information systems into a single electronic patient record. This will expedite access to critical patient health information by Sunnybrook's health care professionals and staff.

"We chose Salumatics after a comprehensive market search and a review of Salumatics service and quality control systems," said Sam Marafioti, CIO of Sunnybrook. "We needed a partner that met our technical and business objectives to enhance clinical productivity and the effectiveness of our clinical staff, while continuing quality of care and ensuring patient safety."

To accomplish this Salumatics will convert Sunnybrook's paper-based charts to digital images at its secure facility in Mississauga. This will provide Sunnybrook's health records staff, physicians and clinicians with seamless and secure access to the patient's entire health record in electronic format.
