Shawn Morrison and Scott McMillan from Salumatics Inc. recognized as Certified Professionals in Healthcare Information and Management Systems (CPHIMS) by HIMSS

MISSISSAUGA, February 3, 2010 – HIMSS (Healthcare Information and Management Systems Society), the premier association for leadership in the management of technology, information and change in healthcare, is proud to announce that Shawn Morrison, Chief Technology Officer, and Scott McMillan, Director of Business Relationships, from Salumatics Inc., have earned the designation of Certified Professional in Healthcare Information and Management Systems (CPHIMS). CPHIMS is an international credential that provides formal recognition of knowledge and competency in healthcare information and management systems.

“HIMSS congratulates all of the individuals who have earned CPHIMS,” said H. Stephen Lieber, HIMSS President/CEO. “We are confident these individuals will add significantly to the betterment of healthcare as a whole.”

Allan Magnacca, CEO of Salumatics Inc., stated “We are pleased to recognize Shawn and Scott for their efforts and dedication to the continuing improvement of the Salumatics executive team by becoming CPHIMS.”

To earn CPHIMS, an individual must satisfy eligibility requirements that incorporate a blend of work experience and education, and pass the CPHIMS examination. The CPHIMS examination tests knowledge required of a healthcare information and management systems professional in the areas of general healthcare and technology environments, systems and administration.

CPHIMS acknowledges and honours the proven expertise and commitment of those who have earned this credential. CPHIMS are distinguished innovators and dedicated contributors to the delivery of quality healthcare. Their knowledge, dedication and professional achievement drives the exploration and advancement of technology as an instrument of continuous improvement in the healthcare field.
